Intervacc has presented results from clinical trials at a scientific meeting on strangles

“Getting to grips with strangles” is a regularly recurring international scientific meeting on research on strangles a highly contagious horse disease. At the meeting held in Montanan, USA, in September 2017, Intervacc’s CEO, Jan-Ingmar Flock, presented data from the development work and the clinical trials conducted with Strangvac®. This has given further spread and knowledge about Strangvac® to a very important target group, veterinarians who work with diagnostics, therapy, prophylaxis and research on strangles and its consequences.
