Sales launch of Intervacc vaccine against equine Strangles during Q1 2022

Stockholm, December 14, 2021 - Intervacc AB (“Intervacc”) announces today that sales of the company’s Strangles vaccine Strangvac are planned to begin in the first quarter of 2022.

Intervacc's vaccine against equine Strangles, a widespread and common infectious disease that affects horses globally, was granted marketing authorization for the European Union in the autumn, followed by approvals for the United Kingdom, Norway and Iceland.

“We have produced vaccine for launch in Sweden and European markets. Production has gone well and we expect the vaccine doses to be released in January 2022”, explains Dr. Tim Wood head of CMC and regulatory at Intervacc.

“In preparation for the launch we have held meetings with leading European Equine veterinarians and the response has been fantastic”, says Dr Andrew Waller, Chief Scientific Officer at Intervacc.

"The interest in Strangvac is already very large and we have been contacted by many horse owners in Sweden and in the rest of Europe who want to vaccinate their horses against Strangles as soon as Strangvac is available for sale.” says Andreas Andersson, CEO of Intervacc.
